The Curious Reader is excited to offer teachers an opportunity to assemble classroom libraries geared to your individual curricula with booths selected to conform to the guided reading level system. Developed over several years working with teachers, librarians, and parents in our local schools, this system has been designed to efficiently use your time while leaving you in control of the book selection process. We hope that you will find this a useful addition to your support resources.

How does it work?

1. Questionnaire - Complete the attached questionnaire to provide our staff with basic information about which books are needed to complement your lesson plans. While the form covers the basic information we need, you are encouraged to add additional information to guide our suggestions (specific themes, interests, or other topics).
2. Development of a proposed list - Using the completed questionnaire, our staff will develop a list of books sorted by guided reading level that meets your criteria. Because not all books have been assigned a guided reading level, we may recommend an unleveled title that addresses your specifications; in this instance, we will offer an approximate guided reading level.
3. Teacher review of the proposed list - Once we put together a proposed list of books, we will forward it to you for approval. You may make any adjustments you like and return it (together with the school's purchase order) to us for processing. Please note: we cannot order any books before we have the purchase order.
4. Delivery - Upon receiving the purchase order, we will arrange shipment of the books directly to your school. This will generally take five to eight business days; however, faster arrangements can be made at additional cost.
5. Pricing - We are pleased to offer schools a 20% discount off the cover price of most books ordered (some books may not be eligible for discount - this will be indicated on the pro forma invoice).

That's it! By using the Curious Reader's ordering system, you will receive the benefits of our staff's extensive knowledge of children's books and the guided reading leveling system while giving you more time to focus on other areas of teaching.

Classroom Library Teacher's Questionnaire

The Curious Reader has designed this questionnaire to assist teachers in building classroom libraries that are carefully assembled to meet their individual curriculum plans. Upon completing the questionnaire, our staff will develop a proposed list of titles for your review. Once approved by you, we will arrange delivery directly to the school.
